30 THE SOLILOQUY OF HENRY VI. DURING THE BATTLE OF TOWTON

" This battle fares like to the morning's war,
When dying clouds contend with growing light;
What time the shepherd, blowing on his nails,
Can neither call it perfect day nor night.
Now sways it this way, like a mighty sea,
Forced by the tide to combat with the wind;
Now sways it that way, like the self-same sea
Forced to retire by fury of the wind:
Sometime the flood prevails; and then, the wind:
Now, one the better; then, another best;
Both tugging to be victors, breast to breast,
Yet neither conqueror, or conquered:
So is the equal poise of this fell war.
Here on this mole hill will I sit me down.
To whom God will, there be the victory!
For Margaret, my Queen, and Clifford too,
Have chid me from the battle; swearing both
They prosper best of all when I am thence.
Would I were dead! if God's will were so."

42 SIDI AHMED BEN AVUDA AND THE HOLY LION

Sidi Ahmed ben Avuda was, in the fifteenth century, a very renowned "Marabout," in the valley of the Mina. One day, after spending hours in prayer, he implored the Lord to send him some sign that his services were regarded with favour. Immediately an enormous lion presented himself, and said, "I am sent by God to do anything you require of me." From that day the lion followed him everywhere, and carried the holy man on his back on all his journeys. Since the Saint's death, the lion has every year appeared again at La Koumba, and the men attached to the service of the tomb lead it through the provinces to collect alms.

45 VALENTINE RESCUING SYLVIA FROM PROTEUS

The subject of this picture is taken from the last Act of Shakespeare's 'Two Gentlemen of Verona.' Valentine loses Sylvia, and his false friend Proteus is betrothed to Julia. Proteus betrays to the Duke of Milan, who wishes Sylvia to marry Sir Thurio, Valentine's plan for stealing away his daughter. Valentine is banished, and Proteus, forgetful of Julia, makes passionate love to her. Sylvia, by aid of Sir Eglamour, flies to the forest to seek Valentine. Proteus follows her, and as he seizes her, she is rescued by Valentine. Julia has followed her false lover disguised as a boy.

James L. Hannay (the present magistrate), sat for the head of Valentine; and a young barrister, already well known among journalists, and since greatly distinguished as a Cabinet Minister in the Antipodes, posed as Proteus.

52A THE SLEEPING BEAUTY

"So the princess, having fallen into a deep sleep for a hundred years, was placed in the finest apartment of the palace, on a bed embroidered with gold and silver. . . ."

"So the good fairy touched with her wand all that was in the palace—maids of honour, gentlemen ushers, grooms of the bed-chamber, lords-in-waiting, waiting-women, governesses, stewards, cooks' scullions, guards, porters, pages and footmen. . . ."

"Even little Bichon, the princess's favourite lap-dog, who lay on the bed by her side—all fell fast asleep. . . ."

"At the expiration of a hundred years, the prince arrives. He approached the castle by a long avenue; he crossed a large court-yard paved with marble; he ascended the staircase, entered the guard-room where the guards were snoring away most lustily; he passed through several rows of ladies and gentlemen, some sitting, some standing—but all asleep."

"At length he came to an apartment gilded all over with gold, and saw on a magnificent bed, the curtains of which were open all round, a princess more beautiful than anything he had ever beheld. . . ."

54 THE PROSCRIBED ROYALIST, 1651

"This example represents an incident which might have occurred very frequently during the struggle preceding the establishment of the Commonwealth in England. A cavalier, hiding in a tree from his pursuers, is visited by his fiancée, the daughter of a neighbouring family, who, bringing food for her lover, has entered the sunlit wood, and now, looking anxiously about and listening in alarm for a coming step, yields one hand to his caresses, and with the other hand searches her pocket for the provisions. The trunk of the tree of refuge, an ancient oak silvered and whitened by age and the lichens, lies full in the sunlight, and shows like a gigantic specimen of silver ore. The cavalier, with features besmirched and hair dishevelled, attests what had been his hiding place. Between the broken and leafy underwood, in the freshest green of nature, the eye passes from tree to tree, till it is lost in the labyrinth of boughs. The model for the cavalier was Mr. Arthur Hughes, artist of 'April Love,' a sort of half-brother of the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood; the lady was painted from Miss Ryan, a professional model, who sat for the lady in 'A Huguenot.' The background was executed in the summer of 1852, in a small wood near Hayes Common, Kent."—Extract from the Grosvenor Gallery Catalogue, 1886.

55 THE EVIL ONE SOWING TARES

"Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, the Kingdom of Heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field; but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way."—St. Matthew, xiii. 24, 45.

"Satan, represented as an aged evil-minded figure in a dark gaber-dine, with wild locks flying about his face, appears in a field, and, with grotesque energy and delight in evil, is busily sowing the evil seed. The gloom of the night-clouds is made more dreadful by the large irregular crescent-shaped gap which divides their bulk behind the head and shoulders of the Evil One.

SIR J. REYNOLDS, P.R.A.

68 PORTRAIT OF THE HON. MRS. DAMER, in a crimson robe lined with ermine, low-necked dress; half-length

This lady was Anne (daughter of the Hon. Seymour Conway, the distinguished General and Field-Marshal, and brother of the first Marquess of Hertford), who married John, eldest son of Joseph Damer, Earl of Dorchester, of Milton Abbey. She was an amateur artist and sculptor of considerable talent, and seems to have been a personal friend of Sir Joshua Reynolds. Her name is mentioned several times in Leslie and Taylor's 'Life and Times of Sir Joshua Reynolds': once as appearing amongst other ladies of fashion at a famous masquerade, in 1772, at the "Pantheon," in male domino; and on another occasion as being captured, with other passengers, whilst crossing the Channel in the Dover and Ostend packet, by a French frigate, in 1779. She was also a friend of Sir Horace Walpole, and is frequently named in his letters.

87 THE NIGHT OF RIZZIO'S MURDER

"The Queen was sitting on a sofa, Rizzio in a chair opposite to her, and Murray's sister, the Countess of Argyll, on one side. Arthur Erskine, the equerry, Lord Robert Stuart, and the Queen's French physician were in attendance, standing.

"Darnley placed himself on the sofa at his wife's side. She asked him if he supped. He muttered something, threw his arm round her waist, and kissed her. As she shrank from him, half surprised, the curtain was again lifted, and against the dark background, alone, his corselet glimmering through the folds of a crimson sash, a steel cap on his head, and his face pale, as if he had risen from the grave, stood the figure of Ruthven. Glaring for a moment on Darnley, and answering his kiss with the one word 'Judas,' Mary Stuart confronted the awful apparition, and demanding the meaning of the intrusion.

"Pointing to Rizzio, and with a voice sepulchral as his features, Ruthven answered: 'Let your man come forth; he has been here over long.' 'What has he done?' the Queen answered; 'he is here by my will.'"—Vide Froude's History of England.

90 THE COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT

"The cheerfu' supper done, wi' serious face,
They round the ingle form a circle wide:
The sire turns o'er wi' patriarchal grace,
The big ha' Bible, ance his father's pride.
His bonnet rev'rently is laid aside,
His lyart haffits wearing thin and bare:
Those strains that once did sweet in Zion glide,
He wales a portion with judicious care;
And 'Let us worship God,' he says, with solemn air."

300 WATT TINLIN

IV.

Now loud the heedful gate-ward cried—
‘Prepare ye all for blows and blood !
Watt Tinlin,* from the Liddel-side.
Comes wading through the flood.’

* * * *

V.

While thus he spoke, the bold yeoman
Entered the echoing barbican.
He led a small and shaggy nag,
That through a bog, from hag to hag,
Could bound like any Billhope stag.
It bore his wife and children twain ;
A half-clothed serf was all their train :
His wife, stout, ruddy, and dark-brow’d,
Of silver brooch and bracelet proud,
Laughed to her friends among the crowd.
He was of stature passing tall,
But sparely formed, and lean withal ;
A batter’d morion on his brow ;
A leather jack, as fence enow,
On his broad shoulders loosely hung ;
A border axe behind was slung ;
His spear, six Scottish ells in length,
Seemed newly dyed with gore ;
His shafts and bow, of wondrous strength,*
His hardy partner bore.

Lay of the Last Minstrel, Canto IV.

* This person was, in my younger days, the theme of many a fireside tale. He was a retainer of the Buccleugh family, and held for his border service a small tower on the frontiers of Liddesdale. Watt was, by profession, a sutor ; but, by inclination and practice, an archer and warrior.—Note by Sir Walter Scott.

"Come, rest in this bosom, my own stricken deer;
Though the herd have fled from thee, thy home is still here;
Here still is the smile that no cloud can o'ercast,
And a heart and a hand all thy own till the last.

"Oh! what was love made for, if 'tis not the same
Through joy and through torment, through glory and shame?
I know not, I ask not, if guilt's in that heart,
I but know that I love thee, whatever thou art.

"Thou hast called me thy angel in moments of bliss,
And thy angel I'll be 'mid the horrors of this,—
Through the furnace, unshrinking, thy steps to pursue,
And shield thee, and save thee, or perish there too."

- 307 THE ROYAL SCOTTISH JUSTICIARY: An incident in the time of James I. of Scotland

"On an occasion, a nobleman of high rank and also near kinsman of the King's, having quarrelled in the Court with a young Baron, so far forgot the Royal presence as to strike his opponent on the face. James instantly caused him to be apprehended, ordered him to stretch upon the Council table the hand that had dealt the blow, and then, putting a naked cutlass, or hunting knife, into the hand of the injured Baron, he commanded him, on pain of death, to hew off the offending member from the wrist. The new executioner shuddered and grew powerless; the culprit remained for a full hour with his bared arm upon this strange block; it was only after the Queen, her ladies, and the clergy present had knelt and wearied themselves with supplication, that James would remit the penalty. But even then the culprit did not wholly escape, for he was banished from the Court whose sanctity he had so rudely violated."—Vide Thomson, History of Scotland.

371 GRINLING GIBBONS'S FIRST INTRODUCTION AT COURT

"1st March.—I caused Mr. Gibbons to bring to Whitehall his excellent piece of carving, where, being come, I advertised his Majesty. . . . No sooner was he entered and cast his eye on the work, but he was astonished at the curiosity of it. . . . He commanded it should be immediately carried to the Queen's side to show her. It was carried up into her bedchamber, where she was, and the King being called away, left us with the Queen, believing she would have bought it, it being a crucifix; but his Majesty was gone. A French peddling woman, one Madame de Boord, who used to bring petticoats and fans, and baubles out of France to the ladies, began to find fault with several things in the work, which she understood no more than an ass or a monkey, so as in a kind of indignation I caused the person who brought it to carry it back to the chamber, finding the Queen so much governed by an ignorant French woman, and this incomparable artist had his labour only for his pains."—Evelyn's Diary.
